

New Britain Conversations on Race

The Circle Continues

The New Britain Conversations on Race Project exists to address the critical need for greater appreciation and understanding of ethnic diversity by creating and sustaining opportunities for democratic dialogue and action on racism.

Action plans are developed related to issues including ethnic and racial health disparities, prison reform, local education system, housing discrimination, and others. You may have other areas of concern that you would like to bring to the table.

Participants wanting to carry an action plan forward are supported by the Conversations on Race Committee, made up of representatives of local agencies and other concerned citizens. At this time we are looking to restart our Study Circles. If you are interested in meeting with others from diverse backgrounds to discuss racism and how it affects us, please contact me.
